We know that during the applicable guarantee period, ITEAD is likely to face obsolescence on various components used in our many products. If and when this happens, we will redesign the products as required to maintain product availability. Part of the Guarantee is that if we are required to perform such a redesign, we promise that all products are fully hardware and software backward compatible with their original designs. This compatibility includes all performance and functional specs, all dimensions and weights, connector pin-outs, etc.

Customized products based on Nextion apply to such guarantees with a minimum order quantity.
